

First, have students complete the following:

1. Write and say your name (linguistic)
2. Put the letters of your name in alphabetical order (logical/mathematical)
3. Write your name artistically (visual/spatial)
4. Spell the letters of your name with your body (kinesthetic)
5. Sing your name (musical)
6. If you could change your name what would you change it to ...write that down (or state that you wouldn't change it) (intrapersonal)
7. Talk about your answer to the last one with a partner (interpersonal)

Then, have students rank them in order of what they liked to do most to what they liked least. When they are all done ranking link their responses to the multiple intelligences and learning styles. It's a very quick way to gauge what kind of learners you have.
